DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

1. Applicant's election with traverse of Group I comprising tougheners comprising polyvinyl butyral in the reply filed on July 24, 2006 is acknowledged. The traversal is on the ground(s) that if claims 1 and 2 are allowed then the claims dependent thereon should be rejoined and that amended claim 21 should be rejoined. This is not found persuasive because there is nothing on the record to show that the grouped inventions are obvious variants.

The requirement is still deemed proper and is therefore made FINAL.

2. Claims 10-19, 21-23 and 34 are withdrawn from further consideration pursuant to 37 CFR 1.142(b), as being drawn to a nonelected group, there being no allowable generic or linking claim. Applicant timely traversed the restriction (election) requirement in the reply filed on July 24, 2006.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 112

3. Claims 2-9, 20, 24, 26-33 and 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

In claims 2 and 35, it is unclear whether the recited amounts are based upon total compositional weight or based solely on the sum total of components (a)-(d).

In claims 2 and 35, it is unclear as to what is meant by "free-flowing".

In claim 3, as recited, it is unclear as to whether said "polymers having.... functionality" refer to the polyvinyl butyral.

In claim 27, the Markush group format is indefinite in its use of "or".

Art Unit: 1711

In claim 29, "ethylene/n-butyl" is not understood.

In claim 32, it is not understood as to what is meant by "in the bulk of the composition".

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102/103

4. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

5. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

6. Claims 1, 9 and 20 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over JP 52-89141.

JP '141 discloses adhesives and articles therefrom prepared by dispersing polyamide, reading on the corresponding component of the present claims, into a solution comprising epoxy silane, reading on the presently claimed silane compound, and polyvinylbutyral resin, reading on the presently claimed other polymer.

The disclosure of the reference meets the requirements of the present claims in terms of the types of materials added. Given the chemical similarities between the reference composition and that presently claimed, it is reasonable to presume that the former would meet all properties governing the latter. The onus is shifted to applicants to establish that the product of the present claims is not the same as or obvious from that set forth by the reference.

7. Claims 1, 9, 20 and 25 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as anticipated by or, in the alternative, under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as obvious over U.S. 4,174,358 (Epstein).

Epstein discloses blends comprising polyamide, reading on the corresponding component of the present claims, a toughener, reading on the presently claimed other polymer and a silane coupling agent, reading on the presently claimed silane compound. See, e.g., example 163, etc.

The disclosure of the reference meets the requirements of the present claims in terms of the types of materials added. Given the chemical similarities between the reference composition and that presently claimed, it is reasonable to presume that the former would meet all properties governing the latter. The onus is shifted to applicants to establish that the product of the present claims is not the same as or obvious from that set forth by the reference.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

8. Claims 1-9, 20, 24-33 and 35 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over WO 02/12356 in view of U.S. 3,419,517 (Hedrick et al).

WO '356 discloses a composition comprising polyamide and a blend of modified polyvinylbutyral (reaction product of polyvinylbutyral and a polymer having anhydride or acid functional groups) with at least one other non-reactive polymer, e.g., polypropylene. See, e.g., examples 57-64, 86-97 etc.

In essence, the disclosure of WO '356 differs from the presently claimed invention in not expressly disclosing the use of a silane coupling compound and a filler. In this regard, attention is directed to the teachings of Hedrick et al of incorporating fillers and silane coupling agents to polyamide compositions for the purpose of improving the mechanical properties thereof. Accordingly, it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art to have further incorporated a filler and a silane coupling agent into the composition of WO '356 for their expected additive effect. Absent evidence of unusual or unexpected results relative to the use of the silane coupling agent and filler components, no patentability can be seen in the presently claimed subject matter.
